ECAC agencies provided the following updates:

SC Department of Education Director of Office of Instructional Supports, Alisha Green, Ed.D., shared that the SC General Assembly approved a Proviso last year requiring school districts to share 4K wait lists with First Steps 4K. A pilot is underway in Aiken and Lexington 1 to refine the process for sharing referral.

Ann Vandervliet, agency director, reported on the activities of the Interagency Collaboration Committee. Roughly 12 significant planning documents were found across five broad categories: Early Care and Education, Food and Nutrition, Health and Safety, Parenting and Family Support, and Special Needs and Early Intervention. She shared how the working groups contribute to the Strategic Plan.

Amber Gillum, SCDSS Deputy State Director Economic Services, shared results from Untapped Potential. The report found that disruptions in childcare costs South Carolina's economy approximately $997 million dollars annually.

WELCOME

Ann Vandervliet welcomed participants. Children's Trust was thanked for hosting the meeting.

Early Childhood Landscape

Assessments of the early childhood landscape were shared with the group. Three documents were created to identify cross cutting themes and keywords across the range of plans and reports offered by ECAC partners. Artificial Intelligence (AI) was used to create two documents. A third document, a keyword per strategy list, was created by staff; AI completed a frequency count of the keywords.

ICC members reviewed the documents and offered additional resources to consider, ECAC staff will follow up with ICC partners to discuss findings, add funding information where possible, and begin the process of identifying priorities for the next Birth through Five Plan. Guidelines for adopting priorities should include that the goal or strategy

- Is measurable
- requires at least two (preferably three or more) partners' collaboration to effect change
- has (known) funding

Birth through Five Plan

ICC members briefly discussed the timeline for completing a new Brith through Five Strategic Plan. Consensus was that the plan should be ready for implementation July 1, 2026. Soliciting public feedback is imperative, and ECAC staff were encouraged not only to post the draft plan for public comments but also include feedback from Joint Citizens and Legislative Committee on Children hearings, Head Start Policy Councils, and Family Resource Center families.

ICC Updates and Opportunities

Each ICC member provided brief updates about work of their organizations or workgroups in which they are involved. Updates included:

- Child Care Resource and Referral is helping parents find care if their Head Start programs are closed
- Many ICC members acknowledged the challenges of retaining staff. Recent needs assessments completed by First Steps local partnerships similarly reflect the challenges of retaining workforce.
- The SC Inclusion Collaborative continues to work with interested parties to assure smooth transitions of children from BabyNet (Part C) to Education Part B programs
 - Community meetings provide an opportunity for ICC partners to collaborate in outreach and information sharing about early intervention.
- BabyNet and HHS are working to find ways to engage (process) children faster.
- A coalition to address child care access has been organized by SC DSS and the SC Chamber of Commerce.
- The B5 Communications Roundtable, a group comprised of ECAC/ICC staff, meets later in November. They will work to organize a shared content calendar and amplify messages relating to young children and their families.
